

Anna Freud correspondence

Section 3, Pages 61 - 78

These are handwritten and typed letters, mostly outgoing, from Anna Freud to Karl Menninger, Rudolph Ekstein, May D. Lee, and other Menninger Foundation staff. Anna Freud was the youngest child of psychoanalyst Sigmund Freud. Topics include publishing and requesting reprints, visits (or apologizing for not visiting), professional organizations and conferences, comments and critiques on writings, family deaths, and greeting cards. Anna Freud came to the Menninger Clinic in Topeka on multiple occasions during the 1960s. These papers are part of the historic psychiatry material in the Menninger Archives.

Dear Dr. Hill,

I want to thank you and your wife once more for the lovely lunch in your house with your charming family. I enjoyed it very much, as I enjoyed my whole stay in the Menninger Foundation.

As I have been before, I was deeply impressed again by all the work which goes on in all the departments of the Foundation and of the atmosphere and enthusiasm which are created one can only say there should be more places like this all over the world.

I send you my best wishes for your health.
I can imagine what a hard struggle for it lies behind you.

Yours very sincerely

Anna Freud

Dear Dr. Klemmer,

Now that I have returned to Europe,
I want to thank you once more for all your friendliness to me, and for giving me a part in the 20th Anniversary Reunion.
I think this Reunion was a wonderful occasion and I was struck by the way in which it showed the deep impressions made by the years at Menninger's on the various members. There should be more Schools of Psychiatry able to create that spirit!

It was a real pleasure for me to participate in it.

With best regards,
yours sincerely

Dear Mr. North,

Now that I have returned to Europe, may I thank you once more for all the trouble which my visit to the Menninger Foundation must have created for you. I am also especially grateful for the efforts which you expended for the arrangements of the meetings of the American Association for Child Psychoanalysis. It was my suggestion that the Association might meet in Topeka. But I did not think at the time of all the work which would be involved in making it such a success.

Yours very sincerely

Dear Mr. North,

Thank you for sending me
the transcript of my remarks to the American Assoc. for Child Psychoanalysis.
I was very glad to receive it, and the blank spaces do not detract at all from its usefulness.

Yours sincerely

Dear Dr. Karl,

Thank you for your letter of May 10th. When you arrive in London on July 30th, I shall have just begun my holiday in Walberswick, Suffolk, where I go on July 29th. Do you think that you could possibly visit there with your wife during your stay in London? You will be very welcome.

Yours sincerely,

Anna Freud, LL.D., Sc.D.

Dear Dr. Karl,

It seems a long way from England to here and the news of your brother's death has reached me only yesterday.

I am thinking a great deal of you and what a difficult time this must be for you. I know from my own experience what siblings mean in one's life, quite apart from recent good or bad relations with them. They share one's past and one's childhood as no one else can do and a bit of that dies with them. I am very, very sorry.

I missed not seeing you in August.

Yours sincerely

Dear Dr. and Mrs. Menninger,

Thank you so much for giving me the Bulletin of the Menninger Clinic again for 1969. It is always a pleasure to receive it, and I enjoy the publications as much as my colleagues in the Clinic do.

I hope that all is well with you. I have had a sad family loss quite recently. My brother Oliver died rather suddenly after an operation in Williamstown. I believe that you have known both him and his wife, now his widow.

With best regards,

yours sincerely

Dear Dr. Karl and Mrs. Jean,

Thank you so much for your Christmas greetings. I can only say that a Christmas present is always welcome, and all the more so when it will come separated from the rush time of the holidays. It will be very welcome.

With my best regards and good wishes,

Yours sincerely,
