Dearest Eileen & Bobby;

Hello darlings here it is Tuesday & nearly the end of January I am beginning to realize the day of week & month now it closes & go so fast when you know wey day.

I got those papers for mother to fill out last night & they are really complicated I don't know whether she can fill them out or not but tell her to be sure & send it in right away as it goes into effect the 1st of March. I got a letter from Dan today but not from you he didn't have much to say except about his 5 day xmas pass & I am not much intersted in the whiskey he got for celebrating & his xmas presents I think I'll tell him what I had for xmas but it wasn't so bad though in fact I sorta liked it especially the New years celebration.

We were especially lucky in our last attack as you can see by that paper I sent you if you ever get it. If the Russians keep moving I don't think this war will last much longer I don't know but the war seems to be the main subject over here.

We had electric lights in the town we were in last night but are back to gasoline again tonight. Our squad has 2 rooms in a German house & it usually takes us all day to get wirelaus dogs & the rooms cleaned so we can stay in them but when we do finally get them the way we want them we really take it easy. We are all setting around raping coffee & drinking it now there is so much talk that I can hardly consentrate on this letter I can't figure out what they talk about all the time but most of the time it is the war & how soon we'll get home after the war is over we've almost decided that we'll be here for a while after it is over but I sure hope it isn't long.

These new shoes I have really keep my feet warm & you can cont.

imagine how I life that as my feet are always cold. They gave us big leather mittens last night that come up to my elbows nearly & are sure good to keep your hands warm but are sure hard to do anything in. but I don't want to do anything anyhow.

What does Bobby have to say these days I'll bet he says something new every day & I'll also bet he'll get more spoiled every day he won't even know me when I get home anyhow but I won't know him either if he grows a lot & gets a hair cut. well darling I don't know anything to write about so I'll sign off for now & write to you again tomorrow — I hope I get another letter from you by then Goodnight my darling.

All my love
Bob.

Lots of kisses to
You & Bobby.
