

Dart Point from 14JO452

A single corner-notched dart point was recovered from 14JO452, an archeological site in Johnson County, prior to the site's destruction by construction. The dart point, along with other artifacts from the site, was donated to the Kansas Historical Society in 2017. Dart points would be mounted to the dart foreshaft, which would in turn be connected to the dart shaft. The assembled dart would then be thrown with an atlatl (spearthrower).
