

Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company depot, Newton, Kansas

This postcard shows a street view of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company depot in Newton Kansas. The two-story brick building constructed between 1929 and 1931 includes a passenger depot, Harvey House and employee dormitory rooms. Designed in the Tudor Revival style, the depot has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1985. The facility operates as an Amtrak stop and businesses occupy the rest of the building.
